

THE RIDE THAT STARTED IT

You were given an address.

Nobody told you where to get off. The kombi passed the turn off, and the walk home was long, dark and one stop too late to fix.

WHAT SVIKA ALREADY DOES

Working now, on a live database.

BOARD WITH A CODE

4729

Four digits, scoped to the route and the hour. The hwindi taps it in, you ride.

CHANGE BECOMES CREDIT

$1.50 kept this week

Unreturned change lands in your wallet as USD credit, on a double entry ledger.

ARRIVAL PREDICTED

4 min

Built from real recorded corridor rides. Every estimate says what it stands on.

The honest line: the minutes are real, the moving kombis on the map are still a labelled simulation until vehicles carry GPS.

VOICE GUIDE

You are at the turn off. Get off here.

The address becomes the plan: which kombi, where to drop, how far the walk. Then the voice rides with you so the turn off never slips past again.

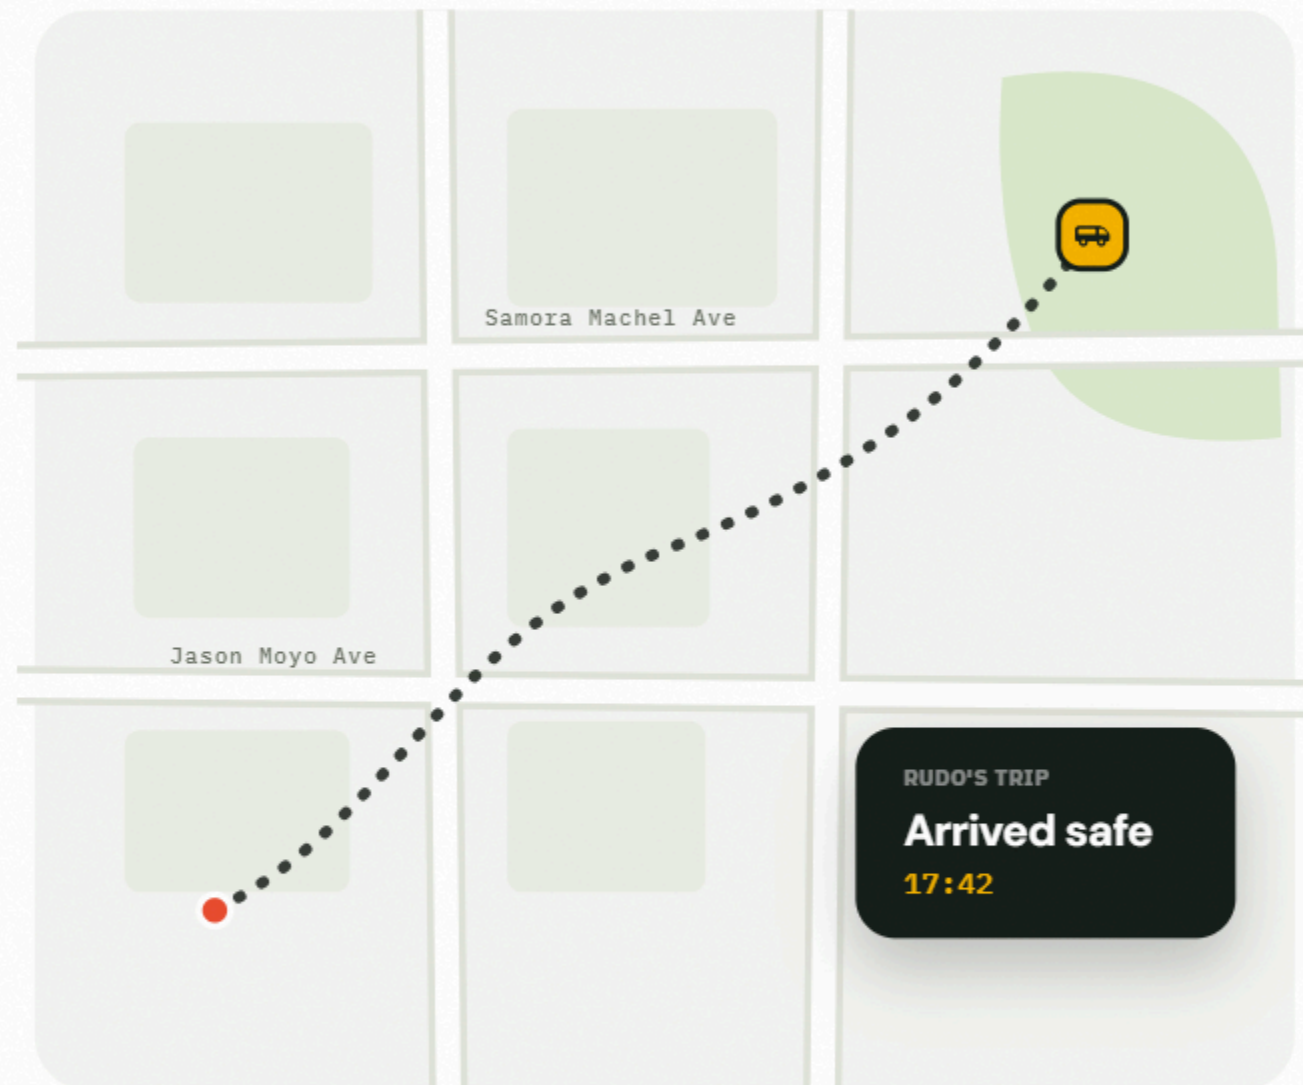

GUARDIAN MODE

She gets there. You see it.

A linked trip shows the guardian each step: boarded, en route, arrived. The child always sees the guardian chip on their own screen. No silent tracking, ever.

VISION

A code bought in London, boarded in Chitungwiza. Real money movement waits for the licensed rails, so this beat stays a slide, not a build.

KOMBIS, EMPLOYED

• VISION

The dawn run no company car can price.

An office park signs a charter. One kombi, one contract, thirty people at their desks by seven. The fare data being collected now is what prices it later.

Honest line: permits, insurance class and the association agreement come first.
